"LET us have peace" says Grant Let us have justice say we evenand BIGHT. In these principles only may we find peace scartly SAFE-TY mafety for life and property. The robber may cry peace, with his the sacred rights of Representatoot on his victim's neck, but there is no peace. So too, a government machine run for the benefit of a wealthy and aristocratic faw and for the down their system of wrong, after all as independent powers. this, we say, these worthies may well ery "peace." With them, peace means-"don't disturb us now-do not make war upon us-if you do, you are rebels, traitors. Are we not peaceable? Let us alone in our enjoyments. "Oh, yes," says Ben Butler "let us have peace!" I have made my pile. I secured the planes, the gold spoons -do let us have peace,"

We must repeat again-in justice only is there peace. "Let justice prevail though the heavens should fall." And the PEOPLE need and demand JUNTICE-require if.

Our people generally are not yet so lost to a proper regard for their own port so rotten a system of robbery and wrong as is now apparently fast ned upon us. The ballot box In due ime will demonstrate the feelings and sentiments of an outraged and oppressed people. American laboring men are discovering they take our "life when they do take the means whereby we live," The tariff, bondholding, and other robbing schemes are likely to work their own cure.

At Cleveland, Ohio, on Saturday, a most distressing casualty occurred. Recently an excavation has been made under an embankment on Cenoon the overtopping earth gave waynew discoveries.
